HISTORIC PENNSYLVANIA: EPHRATA CLOISTER
Founded in 1732 by Conrad Beissel and a group of German Pietists, who established a Protestant Monastery known as the German Seventh Day Baptist. Buildings shown are the Saron (Sisters' House) and the Sall (Place of Worship). Restoration by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Comm. Open to the public.

Stopped on way (out of the way) but it was locked up, guides gone - Place was noted for their illuminated manuscript work and regular writing room, and the work & discipline in teaching, or discipline - Most that's left is in Library unless it came in other museum - but there is another one, - will be nice trip when - anywhere
